

TUCKER, (L. H.) OF PARIS FOOT BALL TEAM

DON'T GIVE YOUR FRIEND "A LITTLE SHOT"

The giving away of a drink of liquor is in violation of the 1920 prohibition law, the Court of Appeals held in reversing the decision of the Shelby Circuit Court in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Tom Wells.

Wells was indicted on a charge of giving one-fourth of a pint of liquor to Lason Roberts in Shelby county last January. The trial court is said to have sustained the demurrer to the indictment on the ground that the indictment did not charge a public offense or in other words that it was not unlawful for a person to give away intoxicating liquor.

The opinion, which was handed down by Judge Charles Moorman, states that the seventh amendment to the Kentucky Constitution, which prohibits the manufacture, sale or transport of intoxicating liquor, does not restrict the power of the Legislature in dealing with the subject of intoxicating liquor, but leaves to the legislature "a reasonable discretion in the selection of the method and means of prohibiting the use of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes."

REV. B. M. BRIDGES GIVES FACTS IN HIS CASE

It is doubtful if there has ever been a medicine endorsed by so many ministers of the Gospel as has Tanlac. Indeed, there is scarcely a faith, creed or denomination in all the land in which one, or more, of the clergymen has not publicly expressed their indebtedness to the Premier Preparation for the benefits they have derived from its use.

One of the latest to speak out in this connection is Rev. B. M. Bridges, a widely known and beloved Baptist preacher, residing at Mooresboro, N. C., whose statement follows:

"Tanlac has given me a good appetite, toned up my system and renewed my strength in such a gratifying way that I am glad to recommend it to anyone who is in a run-down condition. For ten years past I have had such a severe case of indigestion that I could not find anything to eat that agreed with me. Finally I became very nervous and could get but very little sleep or rest.

"It seems that I took nearly everything trying to get myself right. I can say from experience that Tanlac is a splendid medicine and tonic, for it built me up wonderfully."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

JOINT DEBATES PAST

Political joint debates no longer feature campaigns as they formerly did and nowadays it is a rarity for opposing party candidates to meet on the stump for a joint discussion of the issues. Occasionally now one candidate may challenge his opponent for a joint debate but seems understood beforehand that they will not get together.

The joint debate becomes decadent with the extension and development of the rival party organizations along more practical lines. Now an objection urged against the joint debate by one side is that it would draw a crowd for the other. Up to 1895, even the candidates for Governor were accustomed to meet in joint debate, and in that year P. Wat Hardin, Democrat, and Wm. O. Bradley, Republican, faced each other in memorable events at Louisville and Eminence.

Not only was it customary for rival party candidates to speak from the same platform, but often they traveled together to fill campaign appointments. James B. McCreary, Democrat, and John Harlan, Republican, traveled over the State together as rival candidates for Governor, stopping at the same hotel and sleeping in the same bed.

Governor McCreary was very fond of telling of an incident that happened during that campaign. He said that he and his opponent had just retired when Mr. Harlan remarked: "The next Governor of Kentucky is in this bed," when the bed broke down and Mr. Harlan rolled out on the floor.

"The next Governor is still in this bed," was the timely rejoinder of Mr. McCreary, as related by him.

"COLD IN THE HEAD"

is an acute attack of Acute Catarrh. Those subject to frequent "colds in the head" will find that the use of HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE will build up the system and render them less liable to colds. Repeated attacks of Acute Catarrh may lead to Chronic Catarrh. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thus reducing the inflammation and assisting Nature in restoring normal conditions.
